For 50 years, Toronto Arts Council has supported art in the city. Tonight, with this [show/performance/exhibition], you're experiencing what's possible thanks to public funding for the arts. As part of its 50th anniversary, TAC has launched a campaign called Believe in Art, and we're proud to join them because we, too, believe in the importance of art in our lives, careers, and the city. If you also believe in the value of the arts, join us and Toronto Arts Council by sharing why you believe in art, and write to your elected representatives to seek more funding for arts and culture.
